Almond-Moses Spoke at Hunt Club Picnic

Attorney General J. Lindsay Almond, Democratic nominee for Governor of Virginia attended and addresed nearly 400 people gathered at Woodson's Lake near here Sunday afternoon. The occasion was the annual picnic of the Mountain View Hunt Club.

After a bountiful picnic dinner at picnic tables at the beautiful grounds at the attractive home of Willie Woodson, State Senator C. T. Moses presided and introduced Mr. Almond. In a stirring address, Senator Moses sounded a challenge for true Virginians to rally in the face of mounting problems. He introduced Mr. Almond as "The silver-haired orator of Virginia."

Disclaiming a political address on the Sabbath, Mr. Almond based his eloquent remarks on the theme: "Render therefore unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto God the things that are God's."

Many county officers and prominent county citizens were guests at the picnic and for the speaking.

Had 3 Inches Rain During July

July saw a disastrous month in most of the Old Dominion. Acreage Virinia farm areas, as dryness led for harvest was the lowest on re... to lose of crops. However, it ap... cord for Virginia and 8 per cent pears that Appomattox County did lower than last year. And the yield not fare too badly, comparatively. dropped to an average of 21 bushels The Appomattox rainfall for July as against 27 last year. was 3.06 inches, not too far below the normal. This rainfall was concentraded around one period, however, and the last ten days of the month saw dry conditions prevailing again.

Meanwhile concern is felt for the corn crop in this county. It is at the make or break stage, and rain now could hardly save some fields. East of Appomattox, the corn crop is in even worse shape. Soon the drought will take ever tobacco prospects, but farmers are hopeful that timely rains will save the leaf harvest.

It is estimated that Virginia had its smallest spring wheat crop since 1885, as the drought hit heavily in

Local Youth, at Camp Farrar

By Howlett Hunter

4-H Camp Farrar ured once a year as a State 4-H Conservation Camp is located at Virginia Beach and is an ideal camp for every boy and girl to rough it in luxury.

I am a 4-H club member from Appomattox County and had the privilege of attending the twentieth State 4-H Conservation Camp during the week of July 15-20.

This camp is situated on a 15-acre tract of land between Fort Story and the by-pass which connects Atlantic Avenue with Shore Drive. The buildings are located in a pine grove facing the ocean and surrounded by white and hills.

The camp made it possible for each of us attending to increase our understanding of natural and human resources as most every boy and girl is interested in the out-of-doors. Our minds were stimulated with clear, strong, uplifting ideas and we were made to realize the immense powers and resources at our command. The subjects that I studied were: Forestry, human resources, soil and water, and insects and rodents. In the afternoons the activities from which I could choose were: Archery, recreation leadership, firearm safety, outdoor cookery, stone polishing, insect crafts, and soils crafts.

Every one in camp became a member of one of the five tribes, which were: "Soil Savers," "Forest Rangers," "Game Protectors," "Insect Controllers" and "Sand Fiddlers. I was a member of "Forest Rangers Tribe." The tribal meetings were held each day and the songs, yells, stunts, and challenges were a delight to each of us.

Vespers and Candle Lighting were under the co-chairmanship of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Smith, of Appomattox County, were very impressive services.

Fun in the ocean and athletics made this week one of fun, fellowship, learning and inspiration, and I hope that at some future date each club member will have the opportunity to attend the 4 - H Conservation Camp.

Study Results Of Business Survey Here

The Appomattox Lions Club, the Appomattox Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Evergreen Ruritan Club and the Pamplin Ruritan Club are sponsoring a meeting on August 5, at 8:00 P. M. in the Appomattox High School cafeteria, at which time Mr. J. L. Lancaster of the Bureau of Population and Economic Research of the University of Virginia will interpret the customer survey made by the Advisory Committee of Distributive Education and Diversified Occupations.

Many parents will recall that last March children of school age brought home survey forms to be completed and returned to the school. The newspaper also carried a copy of the survey form in the March 14 issue and the citizens in Appomattox County were invited to complete the form. Mrs. Rila Anderson also distributed these survey forms to her Home Demonstration Club members who had no children in school.

The purpose of this survey was to make a study of the purchasing habits of the citizens of Appomattox County for goods and services in order to improve the marketing and service facilities of the county.

When the results of the survey were completed, the statistics were turned over to the Bureau of Population and Economic Research of the University of Virginia for interpretation. The survey data has been broken down to include: (1) Reasons for buying specified goods or services in Appomattox County; (2) reasons for buying specified goods or services out of Appomattox County; (3) the number of households buying specified goods and services in the county and out of the county of those surveyed, and an estimated number buying in the county and out of the county based on the survey; (4) percent of buying families giving stated reasons for location of purchase; (5) per cent of buyers who are influenced by specific reasons, and the rank of these reasons in realtive importance; (6) the number of businesses and services expected in Appomattox County based on the number of households and the enumerated businesses and services; and (7) distribution of employed residents of Appomattox County among standard industrial groups in 1950, 1940, and 1950.

The information to be gained from this meeting should be of vital interest to all professional, service, retail, and wholesale personnel, because, if used properly, it will mean an increase in volume of business.

Members of the Distributive Education and Diversified Occupations Advisory Committee are Ivey Holland, John Grinels, A. R. Harwood Jr., T. DeWitt Evans, William W. Burke, and Mrs. Joan Smith.

MISS ST. JOHN TO GRADUATE

NEW BOOK IN THE COUNTY LIBRARY

Pillar of Cloud
by Jackson Burgess.

It was no wonder Garvin Cooper was eager to leave the riotous little town of Whittaker to seek his fortune beyond the far horizons, or that he persuaded his chance - met friend, McVey that their future lay among the high Rockies. And so they joined the inadequate little party under the leadership of the guide Ned Drum, who talked a good story despite his aura of failure. At first all went well, with friendly singing at nights around the tiny campfire, and a certain scarcity of water. Then came creeping doubts as latent hatred grew between Drum and McVey. The hopes and fears and dangers of these people who plodded their way westward in spite of all that hostile nature and hostile Indians could do to defeat them come vividly alive in this novel. It is to such as these we owe our West.

The Confederates just won't stay down. General Robert E. Lee surrendered the Army of Northern Virginia here on April 9, 1865, but "The South keeps rising again."

Take the case of the Confederate monument in the square of the new (1892) court house at Appomattox. Away back on June 9, 1906, this monument was dedicated in a grand ceremony, with the town packed with distinguished guests.

But along came Hurricane Hazel October 15, 1954, and an ancient tree fell across the stone figure atop the pedestal, and it looked like "twelve baskets full of fragments" was all we had left.

However, Sheriff D. T. Robertson gathered togother the fragments, and studied out a way to seal them back together. It seemed a "must" case, because to have a new figure sculptured out of siminar stone involved funds that just were not available. Finally, the job was done and last Friday, Joe Plenisken and a volunteer crew from Transco Station 17, hoisted the figure of the Confederate soldier back to its original position. That seemed to set the stage for a "re-dedication." And such a brief program has been set for this Sunday at 4:00 P. M. At that time the public is invited to gather at the court house square, inspect the restored monument and commend those responsible for the restoration.
